

Victoria & Chris

Both financial planners, Victoria and Chris met at work. Chris went to great lengths to keep the proposal a secret and themed it around Victoria's favourite country – Japan. Illuminated cherry blossom trees lined the path to a marquee that was erected at the couple's home, where sushi and Victoria's favourite Champagne were waiting. Victoria and Chris' big day was an intimate affair, with 52 guests in attendance. The couple exchanged rings by Kimmison Jewellery in a simple ceremony at Victoria Park. Victoria wore a full-skirted strapless gown with English lace, a dusty pink silk underlay and Italian chiffon. Chris wore a navy blue suit, matching the four bridesmaids, while the four groomsmen wore charcoal suits. The marriage was celebrated in Victoria Park's Quartz room, with guests seated at two long tables to create the feeling of a big family dinner. In lieu of a traditional wedding cake, the couple chose individual cupcakes in their favourite flavour – red velvet. Victoria and Chris honeymooned in Singapore and on the beach in Patong, Thailand.

"Less details equals less stress."
